Miner's Body Sighted In Pit By Members of Rescue Team

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP)—An advance rescue team sighted early today the body of one of 37 miners trapped some 650 feet underground by a tremendous coal mine explosion.

The rescue party relayed word that it was still some distance from the body, and identification could not be established immediately.

According to a U.S. Steel Corp. spokesman, the body lay about 4,000 feet from the working area, or face, of the tunnel where the blast erupted at 1:15 p.m. Thursday.

Nehru's Reaction Not Revealed

Reds Want Civilian Outposts In India

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru said today the Chinese Communists apparently plan to withdraw their armed forces from northeast India but want to retain two civilian outposts in Indian territory.

Nehru made a short statement in Parliament.

Pope Closes Session With Optimism

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John XXIII, showing the strain of illness, closed the first phase of the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council today with an optimistic look to the future.

He said he hoped the council would conclude its work in a year and that he anticipated it would bring benefits for Christian unity.

The 81-year-old Pope addressed the 2,200 council fathers in St. Peter's Basilica.

It was their last gathering before a nine-month recess that will end Set. 8.

Pope John told them they had made a good beginning in the council's work, and then he ventured something he had never done before—an expression of a possible target date for the council's conclusion.

Many prelates have said the council could last years at its present pace.

The pontiff made clear he thought differently.

"There is hope," he said, "that the conclusion awaited by all our faithful children may be reached in the glory of the Incarnate Son of God in the joy of Christmas in the centenary year of the Council of Trent."

That centenary year would be

Questions about his reaction to the Chinese plans were not permitted.

"According to present indications the Chinese armed forces will withdraw many miles beyond any McMahon line but they want to keep civil posts at Dhola and Lengju," Nehru said.

The McMahon line forms the northeastern border that is claimed by India. China refers to the line, drawn in 1914 by a British official named McMahon, as "the illegal McMahon line" and says the border is 100 miles to the south in places. This amounts to a claim of some 36,000 square miles of Indian territory.

Nehru said he could understand the confusion that has arisen because of the dispute between India and China over where the McMahon line runs. The Chinese version "is four to five miles below our McMahon line," he said.

He apparently referred to the line at a place near the Bhutan border.

But regardless of this difference the Chinese have said they would withdraw their armed forces 12½ miles north of the line, Nehru said.

It was around Dhola, just east of the junction of India, Tibet and the Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan that the fighting began in September as a forerunner of the Chinese invasion in October.

The Chinese claim Dhola is on their side of the McMahon line. India says it is south of the highest watershed in the area which Nehru claimed was the principle on which McMahon set his line.

The Chinese have promised to withdraw their invasion armies from northeast India but claim the battle line in the northwest is their rightful border. Nehru has refused to accept this claim. India still has not confirmed Chinese reports that a withdrawal is under way from the front positions of the invasion armies but says there is some thinning out of rear Chinese troops.

When the explosion rocked the mine, the men were in an area some two miles from the vertical entrance, which extends 525 feet from the surface.

The rescue work has been slow and tedious, due mainly to the necessity of reconstructing the mine's ventilation system to force out methane gas and carbon monoxide, and to bring in vital fresh air.

Small fires and rock falls encountered in the long corridor also have handicapped rescue units.

Bishop John J. Wright of the Pittsburgh Roman Catholic diocese visited the disaster scene Friday night, offering consolation to the grieving families.

The spokesman said it would be a while before the rescue unit could work its way to the body.

The discovery came in the third day of round-the-clock operations by specially trained eight-man rescue units at the Frosty Run shaft of U.S. Steel's Robena No. 3 mine, located about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh.

Probing cautiously with as much speed as possible in a desperate race against time, the rescuers made good progress Friday night and early today.

In one three-hour period Friday night, they advanced 1,000 feet. Officials had pointed out that there was no way of telling where any of the trapped men might be in relation to the spot where the blast occurred.

8th Unsolved Killing Probed In Boston

Girl, 17, Murdered In Parents' Home; Madman Is Feared

BOSTON (AP)—Police in suburban Winthrop are confronted today with what appears to be the eighth unsolved slaying of Greater Boston women in six months.

The latest victim is Margaret Cadigan, 17, runnerup in a 1962 Boston archdiocesan competition for queen of the Catholic Youth Organization.

She was found dead Friday night on the bedroom floor of the Winthrop home she shared with her family.

Detective Lt. Frank Perrone said of the Cadigan girl's death, "It looks like homicide."

The body of the pretty drum majorette and drill team captain was fully clothed, but her dress was up to her waist.

Her head was immersed in a pressure cooker half-filled with water. A pajama bottom was around her neck and there was a cut on the left side of her neck. A blood-stained 12-inch knife was near the body.

Examiner To Rule

Lt. Perrone said the girl could have died from any one of three means strangulation, drowning or from the throat slash. A medical examiner was expected to give an official verdict of the death at a later time.

Like the other seven women victims, Miss Cadigan was alone at home at the time of her death.

Most of the earlier victims were linked in some way with hospitals.

Two were nurses, one a physiotherapist and others had been patients shortly before their deaths.

Miss Cadigan was interested in nursing and had worked in a hospital as a nurse's aide.

Police fear a madman is on the loose, picking women as his victims and strangulation as his means of killing.

Alone For 20 Minutes

Police said Miss Cadigan was home alone for about 20 minutes Friday night. Death came at that

Londoners Breathe Sigh of Relief; Smog Gone

LONDON (AP)—For the first time in five days Londoners awoke today to clear skies and air free of fog and smog.

The smog left 106 persons dead and more than 1,000 hospitalized with chest and heart ailments. The cost of the four-day pall of dirt and darkness was expected to reach 12 million pounds ($33.6 million) and possibly as high as 20 million pounds ($56 million).

British European Airways lost more than 160,000 pounds ($448,000). The airline canceled more than 300 flights. Other airlines were also affected by the closing of London Airport for three days, 13 hours.

A hundred ships were waiting to get into London docks, many of them since Tuesday. Another 22 vessels have been waiting just as long to get out. Lloyd's, the big shipping insurers, estimated the waiting would produce a massive bill.

Scotland Yard has still to work out the cost of the spate of robberies which made London a bandit's delight. With practically everyone wearing masks and thick fog to cover their tracks, the crooks staged a series of smash-and-grab raids, bank thefts and similar crimes.

Even if fog returns to London, the experts said, it will not bring back the abnormally high proportions of sulphur oxides that made the smog so unhealthy.

Famed Opera Star Is Dead

Kirsten Flagstad Dies In New York

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Kirsten Flagstad, the famed Norwegian Wagnerian soprano and former star of the Metropolitan Opera in New York, died here Friday night. She was 67.

Director John Caspersen of the Oslo government-run hospital, Rikshospitalet, said that she died there at 8 p.m.

"She had been here for several months," he said.

He refused to give the cause of death.

Born to a musical family July 12, 1895, near Oslo, Miss Flagstad started her singing career as a child with a part in Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado." She began her operatic career when she was 18.

A few years later, New York banker Otto Kahn heard her sing "Tosca" in Oslo's National Theater and passed the word to the Metropolitan that this was a singer worth watching.

She made her debut at the Metropolitan in 1935 as Sieglide and followed it up four days later as Isolde. New York critics described her performance with such phrases as "transcendently beautiful."

Until 1941, Miss Flagstad was the Met's leading Wagnerian soprano. She returned home to Germany-occupied Norway during the war to join her husband, Henry Johansen, a wealthy lumberman. He died in 1945 of a lung ailment before being brought to trial on charges of economic collaboration with the Nazis. He had pleaded innocent to the charges.

When Miss Flagstad returned to the United States in 1947 for a concert tour, pickets paraded outside halls in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, protesting her conduct during the war.

She issued a formal statement after the tour saying that she had no dealings with the Nazis and did not support them in any way. She said the only singing she did during the war was in Sweden and Switzerland, neutral countries.

She made other postwar appearances at the Metropolitan and at New York's Carnegie Hall. When she appeared in a farewell performance at the Met in 1952 in the

5 Others To Be Shut Down

4 New York Papers Struck by Printers

NEW YORK (AP)—Four New York City newspapers were struck today by the International Typographical Union. The five remaining major dailies announced that they would shut down.

More than 5½ million readers thus faced a newspaper blackout, but when it would be completely effective remained in doubt. All four morning papers published as usual before the printers set up picket lines shortly after 2 a.m.

Crews were at work at three afternoon papers which the printers did not strike, but there was no official word on whether they actually would publish.

Printers Given Support

Six other craft unions, whose contracts also expired at midnight Friday, did not strike but announced support of the printers. The American Newspaper Guild, made up of writers, which last month struck the Daily News for eight days, is pledged to support the craft unions.

The News, the nation's largest newspaper with 2 million-plus circulation during the week and more than 3 million on Sunday, was struck again today. The other three were the Times, Journal-American and World-Telegram & Sun.

The union did not strike the Herald Tribune, Daily Mirror, the Post, the Long Island Press or the Long Island Star-Journal.

Amory H. Bradford, vice president of the Times and spokesman for the publishers association, said in a statement that the five would shut down "as soon as the necessary steps can be taken."

The strike came amid hopeful signs that the threat of a second blackout of newspapers here in four years was abating.

After the walkout, Bradford said that a tentative agreement had been reached shortly before midnight with the Newspaper Deliverers Union for an $8 weekly pay raise spread over two years. Earlier in the negotiations, the publishers offered $8 over three years.

The $8 in two years is the contract that the Daily News made with the newspaper guild. Five other Manhattan papers accepted this formula. The Post is still negotiating over a sick leave clause.

A strike of deliveries shut down the nine papers for 19 days during the Christmas season of 1958. At that time, the publishers association estimated the loss to the industry in the peak advertising season at $25 million, plus $5 million in lost wages to some 19,030 employees.

Other Contracts Expired

Other unions whose contracts expired today, in addition to the printers and the deliverers, are the stereotypers, pressmen, photo-engravers, paper handlers and mailers.

Wages, hours and vacations were the chief issues in negotiations.

JFK Gets Appeal for Moon Rocket Funds

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—President Kennedy, well past the halfway mark on a cross-country tour, is getting a budget-season appeal for more funds to build a moonbound nuclear rocket engine.

Kennedy was to get the second half of a double exposure to Project Rover—the nuclear engine program—at the atomic test site at Jackass Flats, Nev., today. First, however, he arranged to attend a Catholic feast day Mass at an Air Force chapel here before flying to Nevada.

The chief executive was given the first half of the Rover story—and a thinly disguised plea for financial support—at Los Alamos, N.M., Friday. Scientists are designing the engine at Los Alamos and testing it at Jackass Flats.

Rover advocates hope their engine, still in the dream stage, will be chosen to lift the first American to the moon—an event now planned for sometime in the 1970s. Perhaps significantly, the White House listed as the prime reason for Kennedy's trip a desire to hear about Rover firsthand.

The journey also coincided with the time when the President is putting finishing touches on a new federal budget going to Congress next month. Also, it came as some officials were urging a slowdown in the moon program to save funds.

Nuclear rocket engines were not the only presidential concern, however. Kennedy spent more than three hours Friday at Strategic Air Command headquarters outside Omaha, Neb., being briefed on SAC's emergency plans.

He also got a personal look at

Cleanup From Snowstorm In Area Continues

2 Men Injured In Collision; Salem Game Set Tonight

State and county road crews continued their efforts to open all thoroughfares, following the Wednesday-Thursday snowstorm, but several district highways still were impassable today because of drifts.

The Salem High-Columbus East basketball game, postponed Friday, was rescheduled here for tonight after road conditions improved. (Story on sports page).

The cessation of snowfall and the quieting winds eased the dangerous conditions for motorists and permitted road crews to work without frustration.

The situation in Salem was good. City crews reported again at midnight and worked until dawn this morning and removed all snow from the downtown business district, hauling it away in four trucks.

Mayor Egan Iranmer and Service Director James Feiler supervised operations on State St. and Broadway where the snow was plowed to one side of the street and hoisted onto trucks by use of a hi-lift.

The city grader scraped every street in town, the mayor said.

Rts. 7 and 558 still closed

State Highway Patrol barracks at Lisbon and Canfield reported Route 7 between North Lima and Route 14, Route 558 out of Salem and Route 170 (old Route 90) out of Youngstown are closed.

Many north-south roads filled with drifts Thursday night by the swirling snow in both Mahoning and Columbiana Counties are still impassable. In some areas motorists can proceed, but traffic can move in only one lane for varying distances.

The Patrol reported that motorists are driving with extra caution which probably explains the small number of severe accidents. Although the slick roads have accounted for more mishaps in the "fender-bender" class, only two injuries in a traffic mishap were reported today by the two barracks.

Two Men Injured

John D. Schuller, 77, of RD 5, Salem and William Shultz of RD 7, Rogers were injured Friday morning at 9:15 on Route 14, 2.3 miles south of Route 62 in an accident that stemmed from the hazardous wintry road conditions.

Schuller is in fair condition at South Side Hospital in Youngstown with a fractured nose, fractured ribs and multiple lacerations of the face. Shultz, who sustained contusions of the forehead, was treated and released.

The Canfield post of the State Highway Patrol said Schuller was a passenger in a car driven by Frank Kloos, 51, also of RD 5. Kloos was traveling north on Route 14 when he collided head-on with Shultz' southbound car.

Investigators said the highway was partly blocked with drifts and visibility was reduced by blowing snow. Shultz halted his vehicle but Kloos did not, the Patrol stated.

At least 38 storm-connected deaths were reported, most of them resulting from heart attacks while shoveling snow or from traffic accidents.

In Ohio alone there were 10 known deaths.

Thousands of motorists, truck drivers and bus passengers were stranded by the storm that started

FAMILIAR sight everywhere is modern outdoor booth.

Forerunner of the modern phone booth was a blanket used to muffle the shouts of Alexander Graham Bell's assistant Thomas Watson, during early telephone experiments in Boston.

The first telephone booth, as we know it today, made its debut in 1882 in New York City. In 1890, the first coin-operated public telephone was installed in a Hartford, Conn., bank.

Early models, shown here in photos from collection of the Bell System, resembled everything from parlors to wooden sheds, but in 1934 the design of the telephone booth was standardized. Since then, many improvements have been made.

Pedestrians now enjoy the convenience of pedestal phones, as do the users of "drive-up" and "sail-up" instruments at roadways and on docks at yachting marinas.

Helicopter Makes Emergency Deliveries

TIFFIN, Ohio (AP)—A helicopter flew here from Wright-Patterson Air Force Base Friday for medicine deliveries and rescue work because heavy snow made most roads in the area impassable.

Seneca County Sheriff Robert G. Wagner said the three-man helicopter crew delivered medicine to Fort Seneca, 8 miles north of here, for a young boy running a high fever and to Bloomville, 12 miles east of here, where a boy with a broken ankle was picked up and brought to Mercy Hospital here.

Civic Leaders Ask Halt Of Cleveland Newspaper Strike

CLEVELAND (AP)—An appeal for a quick end to the strike against Cleveland's two major daily newspapers was issued by a group of seven civic leaders Friday.

The group, headed by Mayor Ralph S. Locher, asked that the walkout, now in its second week, be ended so the papers can resume publication by Monday. The civic group also offered its services in any way possible to help settle the difference between the paper and the striking union.

The morning Plain Dealer and the afternoon Cleveland Press and News have not published since delivery drivers of Teamsters Local 43 started picketing the newspaper plants Nov. 29. The Cleveland Newspaper Guild joined the walkout the following day.

Representatives of the Guild and the publishers met briefly Friday, but a Guild spokesman said there was no progress. Another session was set for 4:30 p.m. Monday with Federal Mediator Gilbert J. Seldin.

Negotiations between management and the Teamsters are in recess, subject to call.

The civic group issued a statement, saying:

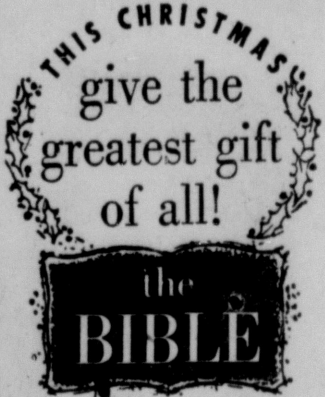

"The turbulent nature of our times in both national and international areas, the problems with which in our home communities we are constantly beset, all cumulatively underscore the imperative necessity of newspaper information, opinion, counsel and guidance."

It cited the disastrous northern Ohio snowstorm as an instance in which the newspapers are badly needed.

A Ministry of

Mr. Shnoo's Zoo Christmas Story

By Lucrece Beale

(Chapter Six)

THE BLUE-SCALED SCHOLAR

"Where are we going?" asked Mr. Shnoo as he and Santa left Shnoo's Zoo behind and started down the road leaving poor Honeybun on a rope.

"There's an elf in Santa Land named Dr. Kernoodle," said Santa. "He has a wonderful way with sick animals. I think he can help Honeybun."

"Oh, I hope so!" said Mr. Shnoo, rubbing his fingers through the brown bear's fur. "But, oh dear, I don't think she can go that far. Look! She is staggering already."

Honeybun swung her hurt head back and forth. She seemed ready to give up and lie down right there in the road.

Santa said, "Don't worry. We'll go by sea — the way I came. It's a very fast and restful trip."

MR. SHNOO got behind Honeybun and gently pushed her along. "A voyage should do her good," he said. "She was on a ship once before, when she was a cub."

"It's not exactly a ship," said Santa, tugging on Honeybun's rope. "It's a Blue-Scaled Scholar."

"Blue-Scaled Scholar! What is that?"

"You'll see soon enough." And sure enough Mr. Shnoo did see, for they came, by and by, to the end of the road and there was the river. Waiting at the edge of the river was an enormous fish covered with sky-blue scales. He was big as a tug boat and his mouth when he opened it was as large as a small front porch.

"Come in," said Santa and he led Honeybun and the astonished Waiting at the edge of the river was an enormous fish.

Mr. Shnoo right into the gaping jaws of the Blue-Scaled Scholar.

The mouth snapped shut behind them and Mr. Shnoo didn't know what to do. It was all so arly and scary. He heard Santa calling to him and he could see a light far ahead. He pushed Honeybun down a slippery, slidey passageway until he came into a lighted sitting room. The walls and floor were red and the furniture was quite modern with lots of comfortable sofas covered with puffy pillows.

There were books on shelves along the walls. Santa went straight to one of the shelves and picked up a book. It was called "Three Little Fish and How They Grew."

"He likes to be read aloud to," said Santa. "That is why he is called Scholar, I expect."

HE SAT DOWN on a sofa, put on his spectacles and opened the book to Page 634. He began to read. The room started to move gently up and down as the Scholar moved out toward sea. Honeybun curled up on some pillows behind the sofa. She did not seem at all alarmed to find herself in such strange surroundings.

But Mr. Shnoo was very puzzled. He sank down on a sofa but he couldn't keep still. He kept jumping up and down and examining things.

Finally Santa put down his book and said, "Why are you so fidgety? What is the matter?"

"I have been thinking," said Mr. Shnoo. "I have never seen so remarkable a creature. I must have a Blue-Scaled Scholar for my zoo."

Santa shook his head. "They do not live in captivity. In fact, no mortal eye other than yours has ever seen one. If you tell anyone about it you will be told you were dreaming."

"And perhaps I am," said Mr. Shnoo, rubbing his eyes. But a moment later he knew he wasn't because the voyage came to an abrupt end. Mr. Shnoo stood up so suddenly he bumped his head quite hard on the ceiling.

The great mouth of the Scholar opened and Santa and Honeybun and Mr. Shnoo walked out. They were on the beach of a snow-cov-what happened to the funnies

Now there's a little man who knows what he wants! He wants the pretty funny papers. You might say, "He has a mind of his own..." That's correct, of course. Every child is endowed by his creator with a will and a mind; not developed, but it's there. Yet, how that child is trained from his earliest years, will mold his character, develop his mind and strengthen his will.

Children should have good example, then. And the best example that parents can give is to go to church. The Church is for you and your family. It is the hope of your children. It is the means of bringing God's bountiful blessings to all.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL • ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Can They Get Stevenson?

It is always interesting, though sometimes frightening when a public official is eased out of a high position by the leverage of bad publicity.

The country may be about to see it happen to Adlai E. Stevenson, U.S. representative at the United Nations.

A magazine articles by two reporters, one a close friend of President Kennedy, has made it appear that in the breathless discuss leading up to the U.S. ultimatum to the Soviet Union to disband its offensive striking power in Cuba, Ambassador Stevenson lagged behind on grasping the nettle.

This has been denied by Ambassador Stevenson and Pierre Salinger, speaking for the White House. But the story will be hard to put down because of the friendship between the reporter and the President.

This is one of the ways the ground can be cut from under a man whose welcome has been worn out. A chief executive can plant a story.

Could this be happening to the man the late Eleanor Roosevelt thought should have been nominated in 1960—the only threat to the Kennedy nomination landslide in the 1961 Democratic convention, when a popular demonstration was organized for him?

Could it be happening to the man whose record as U.N. spokesman reflects undeviating opposition to the Soviet Union—the man who warned publicly that economic blockade might drive Cuba into Russia's arms?

Could it be happening to the man who was apologized to a year ago by retired Gen. James A. Van Fleet after he had criticized him for his role in the abortive Cuban invasion? Gen. Van Fleet admitted he had been wrong about his information, and that was the end of another accusation.

It's always interesting to see how these things turn out, especially if the intended victim comes out on top.

Sen. Ellender Isn't Worried

Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana is said to have an ambition to visit every country on earth. The ambition is admirable.

But in achieving it he has bumped into a problem of deep concern to everybody but him. As a segregationist at home and a critic of conditions abroad in countries dominated by Negroes he has hurt his welcome.

Uganda and Tanganyika have refused to let him leave his airplane. The idea may catch on. Other countries, taking note of one slur in particular, in which the Louisiana said he had seen no evidence anywhere in Africa that Negroes could govern themselves may refuse to take responsibility for his safety.

U.S. foreign aid may be jeopardized by this censure, but Sen. Ellender is in more danger of hurting his own country than their wounded pride can hurt the chances of underdeveloped countries to get U.S. aid.

He is an official representative of the United States on a senatorial junket.

The State Department can insist to the last breath that he speaks only for himself. But an American senator who travels abroad speaks for his country.

In a world where whites are a small minority, Sen. Ellender has behaved as if this were the era of Rudyard Kipling and the white man's burden.

All of which doesn't worry Sen. Ellender, but it worries everybody else. When a U.S. senator spends public funds on a junket, he owes it to his fellow citizens to keep his Deep South prejudices buttoned up as tight as his personal purse.

Sometimes It's a Mystery

There used to be a mystery about the ability of Harry Bridges, the West Coast labor leader, to stay in this country and lead the life of Riley.

Some kind of government proceeding against him was going on 14 of the 18 years since the first deportation warrant was issued against him in the early '30s. Federal agencies tried to throw him out as an alien and failed. Attempts to take his citizenship away on grounds that he had perjured himself in getting it were flops. Technicalities always saved him.

Bridges is supposed to have exclaimed at one time, "It's not an abuse of due process that I'm suffering from. I've got due process coming out of my ears."

Bridges never was headed off. Even an act of Congress designed to grease the skids for his deportation couldn't do the job.

Another case of incredible ability to stay put is building up to major proportions. Frank Costello, convicted in 1954 on charges of income tax evasion and "denaturalized" in 1959 after his release from prison, moved one small step toward deportation this week when a government order for that purpose was upheld by the United States Court of Appeals. But he may never take another.

Here again is the mystery of men who give the illusion of being stronger than the government and its instrumentalities of justice. Costello is going about his business as did Bridges, though in both instances the entire power of government had been set against them. For $10,000 bail, he is permitted to do as he pleases. By the time due process has run its course, he may be as free as Bridges, though it will be on a technicality, not on a principle.

When someone "fights city hall" for a good cause, it stirs us to the fiber of our being. When Bridges, Costello and others do it as demonstration of their power to hold government at bay, it scares us. Could it be true in this republic that some men can only be touched by the law, never pinned?

'Hot' Hair

Miami police think professional thieves made off with 200 wigs and 20 pounds of human hair because the heavy demand for wigs among the representatives of the affluent society down there has made transplanted hair a hot item.

Their theory might be right. Those of us who have lost our hair couldn't care less. Our interest in this case lies elsewhere.

From now on, we will ditch the theory we are prematurely bald. We will level with our detractors: We have sold our hair to buy a wig for a girl friend. And if she has read her O. Henry, too, she will sell her hair to buy a wig for us. Baby, it's cold outside.

Winter Exercise

By Truman Twill

As the philosophers say about death — that it must come to all men — snow must come too, in the snow belt.

It's worst at the beginning. Later, all knowledgeable drivers get the hang of winter driving conditions and settle down.

Make no mistake about it; this is all there is to winter hardship any more — driving a car. All other problems have vanished with pioneer living.

Children no longer worry about drying out high-top shoes before morning and bending them into wearable shape after innumerable overnight bakings on top of registers and in ovens.

Neither children nor adults have to adjust themselves to armored underwear stiff as a board after being dried outside in sub-freezing temperatures and brought inside the night before. These garments sometimes had to be thumped with a stick before they could be worn, especially the legs.

Every family needed an Eagle Scout to keep the home fires burning. Naturally, this turned out to be the head squaw. Pie and cake like Mother used to make is an overworked slogan about an overestimated skill. But fires like Mother used to build are hard to find.

Featherbeds have been outlawed. It used to work like this: You tiptoed into a frigid bedroom, peeled down the featherbed, punched a hole in the center, took a deep breath and squirmed in. The principle of the featherbed was engulfment; it closed in like a heavy bug sinking in meringue.

Getting out the next morning was so difficult the featherbeds had to be outlawed, because nobody was getting anything done until driven into the cold by hunger or that other dire necessity which separated the men from the boys and the women from the girls in the pre-central-heat, pre-auto days.

The line is drawn now when winter comes between those with the knack of driving in snow and those as baffled by it as psychopaths are baffled by the other challenges of this era.

Those who can't adjust themselves to their environment lean on the rest of us. As far as they're concerned, there's no limit to our ability to shovel snow and shove cars.

Like this lady I go snowshoeing with . . . She is the world's best fair-weather driver. But sprinkle a few inches of snow on the ground and she comes unstuck. Rather, she comes stuck.

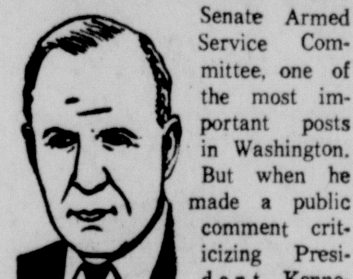

She came stuck the first time it snowed before her favorite shoveler, manipulator, manipulator and shover was through shoving.

There was nothing about her plight that moving two tons of snow and exerting a modicum of skill in the application of basic principles of friction-induced motion couldn't fix. There never is.

Here it is again — winter. I used to claim the only exercise I got was being a palfeather for friends who took too much exercise. As amended, the statement now states that all my winter exercise comes from trying to get shaved before that first call for help.

U.S. 'Concessions' Over Cuba Worry Sen. Russell

Sen. Richard Russell of Georgia is an important and influential member of Congress. He is a Democrat and chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, one of the most important posts in Washington.

David Lawrence
Cuba, it didn't get printed even in the late editions of some of the leading morning newspapers of the country. It was published in Washington, however, where it doubtless was read by the administration.

The Associated Press carried some of the quotations on its wires around 11 p.m. Wednesday. So did United Press International at about the same time. The excerpts were taken from an interview earlier that evening over station WSB-TV in Atlanta with Lloyd Russell — no relation to the senator. The transcript, which has since become available, shows that Sen. Russell said:

"We have temporized. We have even lifted the quarantine. Frankly I thought that was a mistake. I didn't think we should lift the quarantine, or make any guarantees as to Cuba, until we had had the right of on-site inspection throughout Cuba."

This sums up also the opinion of many Americans — regardless of party. It is felt that the United States gave away its trump card when it withdrew its "quarantine" or blockade and demobilized the troops which had been assembled in the southeastern part of this country.

Whether this step was taken as a trade or concession to the Soviet Union has never been revealed. U Thant, secretary general of the United Nations, spoke the other day of the "compromise" on Cuba and of the "principle of give and take."

SEN. RUSSELL now accuses the administration of having made a blunder in withdrawing the blockade before on-site inspection was assured. He deplores the policy, no matter whether it was adopted to conciliate the Soviets or to assist Mikoyan somehow in dealing with Castro.

Sen. Russell added: "Eventually we will have to rid this hemisphere of Castro and all that he stands for. . . . I would be in favor of doing it now if we could make a joint effort with the other Latin American states. But since Russia claims that they have moved the missiles, and since our government has accepted their word about it — and why on earth we should have accepted their word I don't know."

The chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee went on to declare that he hoped the United States would make no further "concessions" because, as it is, "we have not been able to hold the initial gain we made in Ca when Khrushchev promised to remove the missiles." He continued:

"Here three months ago we were pledged to see that Castroism in this hemisphere was destroyed. We have now been euhed into the position of baby-sitting for Castro and guaranteeing the integrity of the Communist regime in Cuba, and we don't know for a positive fact that the missiles and the bombers have been removed. I assume that they have, but all we have seen is a box that they said contained the bomber, and a long metal container that they said contained the missile. . . .

"I certainly hope that we will not make any further concessions until we at least have the right to send the United Nations team in here to see that there are no missiles hidden in the waves or other strategic places in Cuba, and we have the right to test to see whether there are any atomic nuclear warheads there. "That is a test that can be carried on through instrumentation and is reasonably accurate."

THESE ARE strong comments by a member of the President's own party in the Senate. If a Republican had made them, they would have been characterized as just an antiadministration or anti-Kennedy view. But Sen. Russell is a man of independence and is respected in both parties.

He has always taken a nonpartisan position where the military security of the United States is at stake.

There has been a kind of smokescreen drawn to obscure the facts, due perhaps to policies of "manipulating" the news in and around the Pentagon.

Sen. Russell says the world "has accepted the fact that we have won a great diplomatic victory here, whether we have or not."

He added: "The Russians are just following their old policy. The Communists start out on a course of action that they know is wrong, and when you call their hand they say, 'all right, we'll stop this if you'll give us something over here' that they know they have no right to whatever. And that is what they did to us in Cuba."

AS MATTERS stand now, the United States government has never followed up its protest against the Soviet Union for having put the missiles in Cuba in the first place.

Why was this threat of aggression ignored in the U. N.? There is a studied effort in administration circles to give the impression that "appeasement" has been discarded and that the United States has gotten tough with Khrushchev. The evidence, however, doesn't show it as yet. U.S. officials admit there are several thousand Russians in Cuba, along with some MIG-15 and MIG-21 fighter planes capable of carrying nuclear weapons.

The size-up that Sen. Russell has made could lead to a full investigation at the January session of Congress.

Our Growing Population

By BRUCE BISSAT

Richard M. Scammon, head of the Census Bureau, disagrees with those who say the population explosion may prove to be a bad thing for this country.

In his view, booming numbers by themselves are neither bad nor good—just facts we have to live with. This we can do, he says, so long as we have the resources and the social and economic organization to utilize them. He believes we have both.

"Assuming we don't foolishly turn to the trivia of internal commotion but instead maintain and develop the institutions we need to meet our problems, our only worry when the population again doubles will be whether standards of living will have doubled or tripled over today's levels."

AS PROOF OF THIS cheerful prospect, Scammon notes how far living standards have risen since 1910, when the U.S. population was roughly half what it is today. Says he:

"The problem now is not how to get more fat on people, but how to get it off."

Citing our gains in earnings, in education, in health and in lowered death rates, he has slight patience with romanticizing over the "spacious past."

"The good, old days were lousy days," he says. "People were pellagra-ridden, ill-housed, uneducated. "Those were the days when mama had to spend Mondays and Tuesdays boiling the wash."

IF A STABLE POPULATION were a necessary pre-condition to economic well-being, then, adds Scammon, we should be sunk in poverty and the nations still holding even should be sinking higher. But we far outdo the latter.

"You can argue against the population increase on the esthetic ground that we ought to have the space," he says, "but that's a personal judgment which has nothing to do with the practical problems of growth."

Those who are not fussy about space nevertheless might be surprised at his judgment that the United States could hold the whole world's three billion people and have a population density no greater than present day Holland's.

"Though Holland is crowded," Scammon observes, "nobody is being pushed off the continent."

HE SIDES WITH those who accept optimistic scientific forecasts of ample future resources, not only in America and Europe but in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

He believes the big difficulty in critical areas is disorganization—economic, social, political.

"In countries thus handicapped, you could cut the population in half and it wouldn't make a difference. You'd have the same proportion of poverty-ridden, starving people."

On the other hand, any nation which drums up the practical, "institutional" answers to its problems will get along no matter what the numbers.

SCAMMON CONTENTS that this country's main population problem is not growth as such, but the "flight from the land" which finds people pouring into the urban clusters and virtually abandoning vast stretches of rural territory.

To gloomy folk who fear our urban jams will one day congeal in a frozen mass, Scammon says this:

"We've always had these jams. Ever look at pictures of places like New York around the turn of the century? The streets were packed with buggies and wagons. "This is a very minor part of our problem. It's just an exercise in fantasy by some Sunday evening driver."

Lauds City Hospital
Occasionally you hear people criticize hospitals for their care or lack of attention to patients. I would just like to take this opportunity of expressing appreciation for the high type of service we have received at Salem City Hospital where my wife has been a patient number of times in the past few years.

Matter of Fact

The earliest record we have of an organized system of shorthand dates from the year 63 B.C. At that time in Rome Marcus Tullius Tiro invented a system of notes that was used in recording the speeches of Cicero, Seneca and others of the Roman senate. This system became known as the Tironian method and was taught in the Roman schools, learned by emperors and used for several centuries.

The Passing Scene:

County's Stone Arch Bridges Vanish

By JAMES MURPHY

Next to the fast - disappearing covered bridge, one of Ohio's most picturesque landmarks are its old stone arch bridges.

Columbiana County alone probably has several hundred of these stone arches, but they are gradually disappearing. Work crews dismantled the only double arch in the county several years ago when the highway at "Deathtrap Crossing" east of the Lisbon fairgrounds was changed. This bridge had been built by McKee and Brown in 1873, according to the stone plaque built into the bridge.

The most spectacular of Ohio's arch bridges are the famous S-shaped structures near New Concord, Guernsey county. As the old National Road, now U. S. Route 40, was expanded, the engineers left these historic bridges to the side of the new highway where they may still be seen to day.

There are several theories about the odd shape of these bridges. According to some people the engineer was drunk when he made the plans. A more likely idea is that the spans were deliberately S-shaped so that drivers would have to slow down in crossing.

ALTHOUGH NORTHEASTERN Ohio does not have any S-bridges, two triple arches in central Columbiana County rival them in workmanship. The first is on the County Home road where it crosses Cold Run, southeast of Guilford Lake; the second is farther south on Cold Run, just before the stream enters the West Fork of Little Beaver Creek.

Both of these bridges are nearly 100 years old and have artistic stone plates giving the date of erection, as well as the names of the contractors and the county commissioners in office at the time.

Where did the stone for the bridges come from? All of it is local stone. No doubt some of it came from the old sandstone quarries at Lisbon and East Liverpool, but much of the material undoubtedly came from right at the bridge sites. The fine bridge at Gaston's Mill may have been built from one of the many old canal locks in that area.

THE MOST PICTURESQUE of the single arch stone bridges in Columbiana County is on an abandoned stretch of Route 7 south of the Clarkson road. Spanning a deep ravine, this arch is opposite a roadside park, surrounded with yew and mountain laurel.

The largest stone arch bridge near Salem is the one on the old Teegarden Road at McCracken's Corners south of the city.

These bridges are relics of a craft now forgotten. Occasionally a set of stone cutting tools comes to light, but no one is left who knows how to use them skillfully.

The bridges are being abandoned or gradually replaced with modern concrete structures. Even so, many of them will remain landmarks for years to come.

SIX ORIGINAL wooden covered bridges still stand in Columbiana County, most of them being kept in repair by the county highway department.

A pictorial history of these spans has been compiled by Tom Malone of Homeworth, who is a member of the Northern Ohio Chapter of the National Society For the Preservation of Covered Bridges.

GETS $93,000 CONTRACT

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—The Morey Construction Equipment Co. of Parkersburg has been awarded a $93,000 contract by the U.S. army engineers for river bank protection along the Ohio River in Scioto County, Ohio. The project is tied to the new Greenup Locks and Dam.

Mrs. Joseph Siefke

Simpson-Siefke Nuptials Held In Lisbon Church

A nuptial high mass celebrated Nov. 24 in St. George's Catholic Church in Lisbon united in marriage Miss Carol Jeanne Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert G. Simpson of W. Lincoln Way, Lisbon, and Joseph G. Siefke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Siefke of Guilford Lake Road.

Presiding at the double-ring ceremony in the morning was Rev. William Hohman of St. George's Church. Ferns banked the altar which was decorated with bronze vases filled with white chrysanthemums, calla lilies and green ferns. Family pews were marked by white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of bouquet taffeta and Venice lace, with a scoop neckline, trimmed by lace and sequins and long sleeves. The design featured a basque bodice and full bouffant skirt of re-embroidered applique and self roses, accented at the back with a butterfly bow that fell into a chapel train. Her finger tip veil of bouffant illusion was attached to a queen's crown of lace, with pine wheel rosettes.

Mrs. Donald Loutzenhiser of Erie, Pa., sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Henry Siefke of Alliance sister-in-law of the bridegroom, and Miss Sue Ketter of Canton.

Their gowns, fashioned alike, were fall green taffeta sheath dresses with full overskirts. Matching green Dior bows held their short face veils. The matron of honor carried a yellow and bronze arrangement of fugi mums and baby mums. The bridesmaids' bouquets were of light shades of fugi mums and baby mums.

Flower girls Jennifer and Jane Simpson, sisters of the bride, wore white silk bouffant dresses with lace head bands and carried yellow daisy sprays.

Henry F. Siefke of Alliance served his brother as best man. Donald Loutzenhiser of Erie, Pa., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Ben Henteimann of Cleveland were ushers.

The bride's other chose a gold wool sheath dress with matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother was attired in a blue and navy print dress and light blue accessories. Both wore corsages of bronze chrysanthemums.

A reception from 2 to 4 in the afternoon was held at St. George's parish hall for 100 guests from Cleveland, Canton, Oakland, Calif., Philadelphia and Erie, Pa.

The bride's table was covered with a white cloth and centered by a four-tiered wedding cake which was topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Miss Mary Moeglin of Canton, cousin of the bride, Miss Gloria Dell Tritton of Lisbon and Mrs. Robert Simpson Jr. of Canton served.

Mrs. Betty Liggett of Lisbon registered the guests.

For a wedding trip to New York City, the bride wore brown and white wool suit with brown accessories.

The former Miss Simpson is a graduate of Canton Lehman High School and is employed by the Firestone Bank of Lisbon.

Mr. Siefke, a graduate of Lisbon High School, is associated in business with his father at the Siefke Grand View Orchards.

The newlyweds are residing at 502 W. Lincoln Way, Lisbon.

Prior to the reception, a buffet wedding luncheon for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's parents. One of the wedding guests was Mrs. Josephine Naeggelen of Canton, the bride's grandmother, who is near 90 years of age.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siefke, the bride groom's parents, entertained the wedding party at a dinner Nov. 23 at the Hotel Wick.

Personal Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Hoprich, former Salem residents, have moved from Hanover, Pa., to 344 Hurst St., Covina, Calif. Mr. Hoprich is assistant to the business manager of the Daily Tribune in San Gabriel, Calif., a member of the Brush-Moore Newspapers.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise: The most time-saving and convenient bottle in my kitchen is a plastic squeeze bottle filled with liquid cooking oil! It has a screw top and a plastic tip. I keep this near the stove and find just one or two squeezes oils lightly or heavily. It is wonderful for the hot cake griddle egg pan, broiling pans, etc.

This saves time getting out the large bottle. It also saves oils and cooking fats as this way one seldom puts too much on. A figure "8" sweep will spread evenly from the heat and no paper towel is needed.

The second handiest tool I have found on my own is a regular "whitewash" or calamine brush to be used as a dust brush or regular whisk brush. This cheap paint brush is soft but is thick, and gets up spills or any trash for a quick clean-up. It also gets in corners and does not leave broken straws to pick up. I painted the handle of mine to match my dustpan.

MRS. WILLIAM ROSSMAN

DEAR HELOISE: I rinse my baby's plastic panties in plain white vinegar. I use this in the first rinse water. I use about one cup of vinegar to a basin of water and it keeps the plastic baby pants soft. It will also soften plastic bibs which have hardened.

K. PHILLIPS.

DEAR HELOISE: I have always had a difficult time to get mirrors and windows to shine glowingly.

A niece visited me recently and told me to use two heaping tablespoons of plain, old cornstarch in a basin of water and wash my windows. Polish as usual. Even in the sun my windows applied some oil, and it works fine now. Could save others a service call.

Directions are in each booklet that comes with your machine.

MRS. D. R.

DEAR HELOISE: I bought a small sponge and stapled it to the end of my yard stick. (One could use tacks if they did not have a stapler.)

This reaches under and in back of my refrigerator and all of the low furniture and so forth. Cleans without moving the heavy appliance.

Seattle Edges Oregon State 60-58 In Last Minute

7-Foot Counts Gets 31 Points

Colorado Cruises To 82-60 Victory

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer

Now that Seattle has cut seventh-ranked Oregon State down to size, the losing Beavers may have to cut 7-foot Mel Counts in two.

Watching coach Amory Slats Gill send his Oregon State basketball team through a workout recently, a rival coach noticed the skyscraping Counts move with the speed and agility of a smaller man and suggested, "Cut Counts in half and Gill wouldn't have a bad pair of guards."

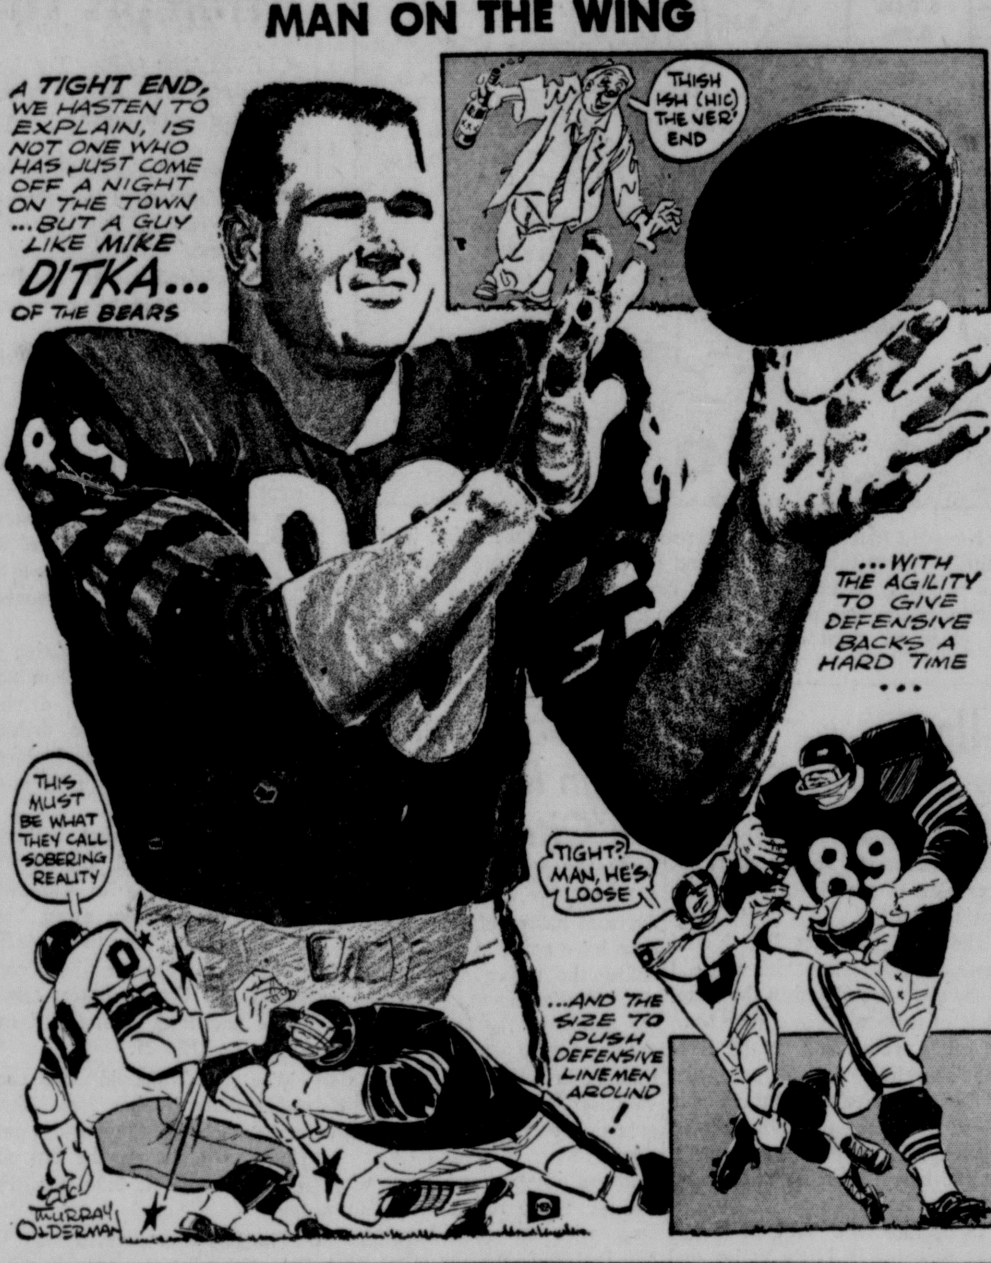

It was that weakness—partially caused by the absence of football star Terry Baker—which enabled Seattle to upset the Beavers 60-58 Friday night on a last-minute field goal by sophomore Charlie Williams.

Baker, an All-America and Heisman Trophy winner, is a regular for the basketball Beavers, but back Oregon State's football forces against Villanova in the Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia a week from today.

Counts collected 31 points—13 in a row at the start of the second half—but it wasn't enough.

Meanwhile, top ten hopefuls Colorado and Marquette cruised to easy triumphs. Butler, Tulsa and Creighton furnished the night's other surprises and Nick Werkman of Seton Hall and NYU's Barry Kramer supplied some point-scoring pyrotechnics.

Colorado's defending Big Eight Conference champions held touted Walt Hazzard to four points, got 19 from Ken Charlton and blasted UCLA 82-60. The Warriors subdued Texas Western 77-65 as Dave Erickson and his relief, John Stoe, both scored 16 points.

Fullback Brown Is 3rd In Scoring

Cleveland Trails In Every NFL Statistics Department

CLEVELAND (AP) — It has been said that statistics often lie. But they're telling the truth about the Cleveland Browns' mediocre football season.

Figures released by the National Football League show no Browns leading any individual departments. Nor does the team lead in any of the 54 offensive and defensive statistical classifications.

Still, they hope to climb in Sunday's game against the Giants in New York.

Jim Brown, with 90 points on 15 touchdowns, got none last Sunday and fell to third place in scoring.

Frank Ryan, who replaced injured Jim Ninowski at quarterback, is in a respectable fourth place among the passers. With a 59.6 completion percentage, Ryan has thrown 10 touchdown passes. His 90 completions have gained 1,274 yards.

Ross Fichtner is tied for second in pass interceptions with seven, and Gary Collins is sixth in punting with a 43.9-yard average.

Collins Cards 133 For 3-Stroke Lead

By THEODORE A. EDIGER CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP)—

There's nothing like par-busting therapy for an ailing back. That was the way Bill Collins, who hadn't played much golf recently because of vertebra trouble, felt today as he led 66 surviving pros and 10 amateurs into the third round of the $20,000 Coral Gables Open.

"My back feels fine," beamed the 205-pound Miami pro after carding a 31-35-66 for a 9-under-par 133 at the halfway mark.

Collins was three strokes ahead of his nearest rivals, young Al Kelley of Coral Gables, making his pro debut, and Gardner Dickinson of Tequesta, Fla., whose 66 shared low honors.

Collins, recently returned to the circuit after being sidelined five weeks because of his back, said he would go to his Baltimore home to rest after this tournament, then compete in the Los Angeles Open.

Failing to make the grade at the 143 cutoff mark were such well known campaigners as Doug Ford, who had 146, and Julius Boros, Bobby Nichols and Pete Cooper, 147s.

More fortunate were Dave Ragan, winner of the Texas Open at Beaumont, the Florida PGA champion, and the West Palm Beach Open, and Rex Baxter of Amarillo, Tex., who were two strokes off the lead with 137s.

Bobo Newsom, Pitcher Many Years, Dies

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Bobo Newsom, the roly-poly nomad who changed uniforms 26 times during a flamboyant 25-year baseball career in which he ultimately wound up a loser, died Friday at 55, less than 10 years after he pitched in his last major league game.

The affable South Carolinian, born Louis Norman Newsom on Aug. 11, 1907, got a late start in organized baseball with Raleigh of the Piedmont League some 21 years later. But he made up for that. Not until the end of the 1953 season did he step off the mound for the last time.

In between, Newsom's career was marked by a well-balanced ledger equally filled with achievements and failures, an elongated card in the record book listing 18 teams in the minors and majors and some newspaper clippings dealing with his off-the-field antics.

Big was the word for Newsom. He stood 6-foot-3 and weighed in the neighborhood of 220 to 240 pounds. And he talked big, acted big—and pitched almost that well.

He pitched for almost every team in the majors and addressed everybody from the bat boy to the owner as Bobo. Naturally, they started calling him the same.

Newsom took his big frame out to the pitchers' mound for nine different major league teams—he shares the American League record by having played on six clubs—and made the rounds with four teams 11 times.

He was with the Washington Senators four different times, played for the St. Louis Browns on three occasions and shared hotel space with the Brooklyn Dodgers twice each. He also spent some time with New York's Giants and Yankees as well as with the Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and Chicago Cubs.

Newsom finished at Philadelphia in 1953. He won 20 games three times, with St. Louis in 1938, St. Louis and Detroit in 1939, and Detroit in 1940. He matched that by losing 20 in 1934 with St. Louis, in 1941 with Detroit and in 1945 with Philadelphia.

His best year was with the Tigers in 1940 when he helped pitch Detroit to the American League pennant by posting a 21-5 record.

Newsome's death was attributed to cirrhosis. He died while a patient at an Orlando Hospital.

Survivors include the widow, Ruth, a daughter and a son.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete.

Bills Eye 1st AFL Winning Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The American Football League's Eastern Conference takes over the spotlight this weekend, beginning with today's game in New York between the Titans and Buffalo Bills in which the Bills try and put together their first winning season.

Houston and Boston continue their chase for the division title Sunday, with the two-time champion Oilers at home to winless Oakland while Boston has a much tougher chore at hand in San Diego against the Chargers. Western Division king Dallas plays host to Denver in the other game.

Buffalo, with a 6-6-1 record, winds up its 1962 season. A victory would not only get the first winning season in its 3-year AFL history, but would also assure Buffalo of third place.

The game matches the league's busiest rushing offense, led by record-maker Cookie Gilchrist against the aerial antics of the Titans' Lee Grosscup and Johnny Green. Gilchrist set a league rushing mark last week, totaling 953 yards so far, and the Bills set a team mark with 2,196 yards.

Houston, with a 9-3 record, is heavily favored over the Raiders, winless in 12 games this season and 18 since last year. With San Diego on the rise and the Patriots

Lenoir Rhyne (11-0), Central Oklahoma (10-0) Meet

Redskins Face Colts Today; Syracuse Goes Against UCLA

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Sports Writer

College football's regular season ends and the bowl business begins today with at least two titles carrying national labels up for grabs among the smaller schools.

The visit of Syracuse to UCLA is the only regular season game—and the last one—on schedule.

It will serve as the nightcap to a national television (CBS-TV) doubleheader. The opener features the National Football League game matching Baltimore and Washington, with the Redskins struggling to stay in the running for the No. 2 spot in the East and the Playoff Bowl Jan. 6 in Miami.

Two of the nation's 15 unbeaten, untied teams will battle for the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship in the Camellia Bowl at Sacramento, Calif., while the mythical national title for Negro schools will be on the line in Miami's Orange Blossom Classic.

Central Oklahoma State, 10-0, and Lenoir Rhyne, 11-0, will play for the NAIA national title while defending champion Florida A&M plays Jackson, Miss., State, 9-1, for the Negro title. Florida A&M, 9-0 this season and winner of 21 straight, won the national small college title in the final Associated Press poll of the season. Central Oklahoma State was No. 3 and Lenoir Rhyne No. 5.

There is little at stake in the UCLA-Syracuse contest. Each takes a 4-5 record into the game, with Syracuse a slight favorite.

Lenoir Rhyne of Hickory, N.C. will be seeking its second straight title in three years in the match with Central Oklahoma State. Each team features a strong running game, Lenoir Rhyne out of a single wing and the Edmond, Okla. team from a split-T.

Florida A&M and Jackson State are meeting for the second straight year in the Orange Blossom Classic, won by Florida A&M 14-8 last season.

Mahoning Soil Conservation Banquet Attended By 160

A record crowd of 160 people turned out for the 11th annual meeting of the Mahoning Soil and Water Conservation District at Ellsworth School Wednesday night. They heard Sam Studebaker of Tapp City, vice president of the National Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, say that there would be a great challenge to agriculture by 1975. "Every year our population is increasing the numbers of people that live in a city the size of Detroit. By 1975 we will need forty per cent more fruits and vegetables, 35 per cent more milk and 40 per cent more corn to feed these people. If we do not properly use and protect our natural resources we will fail this challenge," he declared.

the board, and Earl Ruggles of North Jackson will be the new member.

Fred Merrill, U.S. Soil Conservation Service, reported on the district activities. He said that the acre-by-acre soil survey has been completed in Coitsville-Youngstown, Austintown, Poland, Boardman and Canfield townships and that the soil scientists are now working in Jackson township.

He pointed out that more conservation was applied to the land in the past year than ever before. There are now over 400 co-operators with the Mahoning Soil and Water Conservation District.

Miss Esther Yoder discussed her conservation education courses at Camp Muskingum. The district awarded a conservation scholarship to Miss Yoder of North Lima last summer. This award is made each year to a local teacher, and Miss Yoder is a first grade teacher at Leetonia.

The Western Reserve High School Chorus, under the direction of Robert E. Miller sang several Christmas songs. The Rev. Fred Cochran, pastor of the Ellsworth Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation. The dinner was prepared by the Western Reserve Parent - Teachers Organization. Paul Gipp of Salem, Production Credit Association, Salem, was toastmaster.

Precautions for Winter Driving Cited by Chief

Salem Police Chief Martin Lutsch Jr. today cited several precautions drivers could take to prevent winter-time traffic accidents.

"Keeping the windshield clear is a necessity," declared Chief Lutsch. "If your defroster isn't working right, it isn't just a nuisance—it's a hazard. If your windshield wipers aren't doing a good job, you aren't just in trouble—you're in danger."

Pointing out that uncontrolled skidding is the basic cause of many if not most traffic accidents in winter weather, the police chief urged the use of traction devices.

"Reinforced tire chains are most efficient, snow tires and good tread help to a degree, and tires worn smooth are the least efficient an most dangerous," he said.

He pointed to National Safety Council research which reveals: On glare ice, at 20 miles per hour, braking distances for new regular tires averaged 195 feet; for snow tires 174 feet; for regular tire chains 99 feet; and for reinforced tire chains 77 feet. On loosely packed snow, braking distances for regular tires averaged 60 feet; for snow tires 52 feet; for regular tire chains 46 feet; and for reinforced tire chains 38 feet.

"The difference may mean having and not having an accident," Chief Lutsch emphasized.
